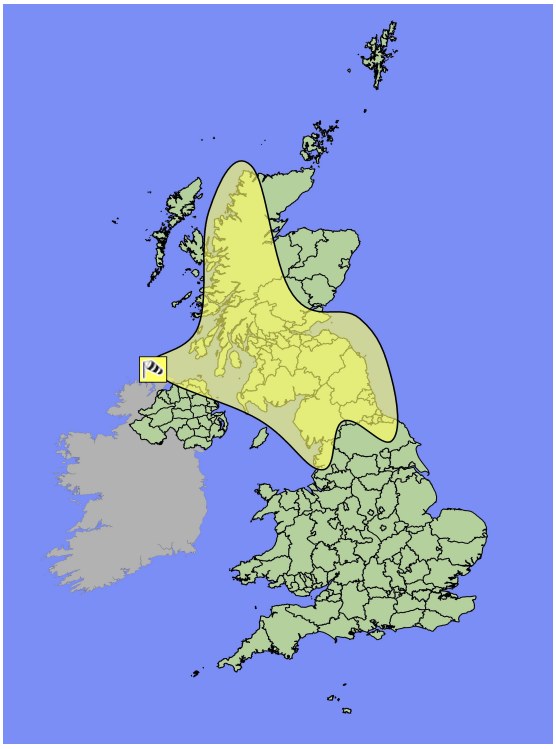
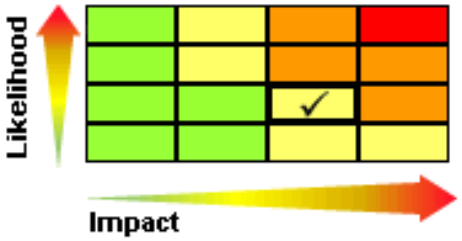
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Strong westerly winds continuing, some uncertainty in the intensity but occasional gusts of 50-60 mph, with isolated gusts 65-70 mph possible in the most exposed locations.
Further rainfall totals of 50-70 mm on top of Monday's rain may lead to some flooding.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Wind

Valid from 00:05 on Tue, 13th Sep 2011 until 22:00 on Tue, 13th Sep 2011

Having eased overnight winds may strengthen again during the day. The strong winds continuing to affect the Central Lowlands of Scotland and exposed parts of Northern Ireland and Northern England, particularly to the east of high ground.
Although less windy further north the persistent rain over W Scotland may lead to some localised flooding.
The public should be aware of the continued risk of disruption to transport and of the possibility of further damage to trees and structures already in a weakened state.
